June Highlights

June was a month of hard work, growth, and lessons. A number of personal and corporate projects recorded tremendous progress, and the month stood out as one in which effort and dedication produced visible results.

Most notable of all was the completion of the ergonomic seats by the PRICE Set 4 class. This project had been a long-standing one from Set 1, and its completion became a milestone that we could not help but celebrate. It was a moment that reflected persistence, teamwork, and the joy of seeing a long-awaited vision fulfilled. We hope the project will provide much-needed relief to the persistent back pain that has been a frequent complaint among Peace House staff members due to the nature of their current office chairs. We hope that relevant feedback and constructive criticism from the staff will help us improve further, as we are already looking forward to upgrading the design for even greater comfort.

Following that, we also saw significant progress in constructing the aquaponics structure. A lot of work was put into it, and it surely paid off. The steady advancement of the structure is both encouraging and commendable, showing that the project is moving in the right direction. The aquaponics project is intended to provide a research platform for the continuous development and optimization of integrated aquaculture–aquaponics systems.

Last but not least was the celebration of the wedding ceremony of Bro. Elochukwu Ogbodo and Sis. Chimdinma Aronu on the 27th of June, 2026, at the All Saints Anglican Church, Nibo, Awka. Anambra State. This wedding was special to us, as the couple were both interns from SET1 and SET2, respectively. The occasion provided an avenue for various commissioned interns to be reunited as they graced the event, and some of the members of staff were also in attendance. We further saw it as not just another wedding but the inception of a godly family that will raise godly seed and be a light in the pervasive darkness. May the Lord bless the new home in Jesus' name. Amen.

Closing

June was indeed a month of growth, achievement, and joyful celebration. We remain grateful for the progress recorded and for the grace that made each milestone possible. Thank you.
